Argentina is located in the Western hemisphere and lies in the southernmost part of South America in the Southern cone.

Given its vast surface area 3,761,274 sq. km., Argentina features a full range of climates and a unique landscape.

The Argentines boast a complex and attractive identity with a flavor closer to Europe than to the rest of South America. Furthermore they are recognized over the world for being seductive, witty, paradoxical and, above all, for having a high regard for friendship.

European influences can be found in the arts, architecture and lifestyle of Argentina. It has been considered as a country with one of the highest standards of living in Latin America.

The best way to learn a language is to live in a country where that language is spoken and to actively participate in the country's day-to-day life and culture.

Argentina is a major cultural center with numerous museums and art galleries as well as a vigorous intellectual and scientific community.

Argentina features excellent Spanish-language schools in cities that offer many cultural and social activities as well as natural attractions.

All of the language schools at www.spanishinargentina.org.ar are members accredited by "Asociación de Centros de Idiomas" (Argentine Language Center Association). In addition, this association maintains the highest quality standards of education within the schools through a continuous process of auditing.
